re: Is Matthew paying you? It's been months, and he is $1200+ in arrears with me.

I've been after Matthew for months. I sent out some similar notes to others on the leader boards this morning.

Dave Mosher has been getting complaints. I am admin for over 200 safelists owned by Dave. Because Dave and I have both a personal and business relationship, he approached me as a courtesy before doing anything drastic. Up until now, I've had Dave hold off on pulling the trigger to block his sites.

Other safelist, TE, and mailer owners had already blocked his sites, but an unintended consequence, whether intentional or not on his part, when Matthew changed out his servers, the "banned lists" were not updated with new IP addresses so many of these attempts were rendered ineffective.

We have all invested (I know I have thousands into it with Lifetime Premium, Founder, Site Partner, etc.), we are putting forth the effort that generates revenue FOR HIM, but we are not being paid commissions for our efforts.

I'm not a lawyer, but I believe, in USA, for anything over $1000 it could be considered GRAND THEFT, but prosecuting him would be impossible because he keeps hiding behind his Canadian citizenship.

I personally am not investing one more dime with him until I am paid.

I'm not into social media but it may be worthwhile having some forum where we can determine the scope and severity of this problem and maybe figure out an approach to collectively confront him.

Earning commissions means nothing if you cannot get paid.

NO! I was wondering if he is doing the same as others. He owes me over $600. He did pay me $175 once saying that is all the bitcoin he has but I told him he could pay me via Zelle.

What would you suggest? I was suggesting an email to many who have joined with me with a hidden message in the email about Matthew not paying. I know he monitors emails so he will delete it if he sees it.

Interesting . . he talks about knowing, liking and trusting!

Let's keep in touch because he is probably doing this to others. Let's check with John Worsham as he is always at the top of the leaderboard.

I'll wait to hear from you before I do anything else.

I'm about ready to have all his sites blocked on Dave Mosher's 300+ safelists and mailers.
