Free Email Inbox Learning System

Anybody who has done anything with PLR would recognize the name Liz Tomey. Liz has been producing QUALITY PLR ebooks, courses, and tools for so many years. While they are not normally expensive, many people have made a nice side hustle peddling her products.

I personally have listed SO many ebooks for resale on my eBooks site, and have used the products with MRR rights to create LIST BUILDING WEBSITES. In my blogging days, I would use her content (when I had the PLR permissions) to run through a content spinner to produce unique content for my blogs. Today, I use ChatGPT to create unique content.

For a limited time... you can download Liz's Email Inbox Learning System FREE!

This product is the Full Reseller PLR which means YOU can create a website and SELL THIS COURSE. That does require a CPANEL hosting account. Since this low traffic, you can get inexpensive hosting through ViralHosts, or for larger demands I recommend Hostgator.

Get Email Inbox Learning System HERE

You'll get PLR rights plus some incredible bonuses!

NOTE: This product is marketed through WarriorPlus but has no associated affiliate program through WarriorPlus, so any upsells are NOT commissionable. Liz Tomey's Affiliate Program website does not list this program, so any revenue you might generate is through YOUR WEBSITE product sales.

Joining Sites Under a Particular Sponsor

You see an ad for something you are interested in joining.

You call your frend who is a member of the site or program, and tell them to send you their affiliate link.

You sign up using that affiliate link, but YOUR FREND IS NOT YOUR SPONSOR! AUGHHH!

Why is this happening? I know it's the time of year for them. It's COOKIES!

While cookies significantly add to my waistline this time of year, the kind of cookies added to your COMPUTER BLOAT are at fault for highjacking sponsorship under your friend.

With many websites, when a visitor accesses the site, the user's BROWSER stores a small text file on the visitor's computer called a COOKIE. There are many pieces of information that could be that text file.

Especially with Safelist and Traffic Exchange marketing, the use of cookies is quite regular, and understanding how they function is vital.

Essentially, a cookie is a small piece of data that a website asks your browser to store on your computer or mobile device. When you visit a site or click on an ad, the cookie works to remember your actions and preferences such as login details, language preference, or other site customization for a certain period. In affiliate marketing, the information held by cookies could include the user's browsing history on the affiliate website, the link that directed them to the site, and any specific product or service they've shown interest in.

They also hold valuable affiliate information such as the affiliate ID and specific campaign details, which could be useful in tracking and attributing sales or lead conversions.

Cookies play a crucial role in tracking the effectiveness of affiliate marketing campaigns by ensuring that the affiliate gets credit for the traffic or sales they direct towards a business or merchants' website. For instance, if a user clicks on an affiliate link but only makes a purchase a few days or weeks later, the original affiliate still gets credited for the sale thanks to the cookie that tracked that user's initial interaction with the link.

Concerning the duration cookies are retained, it greatly varies. It's usually determined by the "cookie life" which is set by the party who owns the website — it can be anything from minutes to years. But typically, affiliate cookies tend to last about 30 to 90 days. It means that if a visitor clicks on an affiliate link and then makes a purchase anytime within the next 30 to 90 days, you will still earn a commission.

At platforms like Worldprofit.com, they provide not only opportunities for free advertising for any program but also affiliate marketing resources that take advantage of cookie data to ensure our partners achieve their desired results. Worldprofit understands the power of cookies and how to use them in order to maximize exposure and ensure proper credit is given where due.
